Want to know more about:

- The connections between community health, safety and equity and how youth can achieve community change?
- Examples of youth driven and led efforts around the nation that support policy, systems, and environmental changes in order to make communities healthy and more equitable?

Join Us!

Opportunities to be advocates for health in our communities is all around us.

Photos, videos and social media can be effective tools to amplify our voices and create change in neighborhoods. Youth around the nation are using these tools to share their stories and their solutions to advocate for healthier communities and neighborhoods.

A light meal will be provided. Space is limited.

RSVP no later than Thursday, March 3, 2016.
